WE NOMINATE

Oskar Morgenstern, one of the Western World's leading military and political analysts, who with the publication of "The Question of National Defense" has taken a long, hard look at the prospects for American survival and has given the current spate of presidential hopefuls enough grist for a dozen primary campaigns. The 57-year old Morgenstern—without falling back upon black pessimism—warns: "safety will not be achieved by the conventional ideas and methods of disarmament and diplomacy, which are trivial and totally inadequate compared with the new elements of the situation."

It is the not-new, sensible contention of this able economist, a Princetonian since 1938 and co-author with the late great John von Neumann of "The Theory of Games," that "war has to become technologically impossible in order to be stopped." There has to be, he states, "absolute technical certainty of immediate self-destruction for those nations who start a war—not only a fair probability, as at present . . . We are near this moment even now, but we are not yet there."

What distinguishes this work, Morgenstern's second major publication in the year 1959, from the general run of expert alarmist literature is the depth of thought and the quality of the writing, as the German-born teacher-scholar lambastes American apathy and run-of-the-mill thinking, particularly in areas pertaining to effective national defense. Possibly he is the lone civilian observer who takes a brighter view of U.S. military careerists than he does of their civilian superiors, finding that the State Department operates far more as "a closed club" than does the Defense Department.

more as "a closed club" than the Defense Department.

A member (together with Princeton's John A. Wheeler) of the Advisory Panel to the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Military Applications of Atomic Energy, the first group ever appointed by a congressional committee in the weapons field, Morgenstern scored last winter with a massive volume, "International Financial Transactions and Business Cycles"—concerned with such questions as "How do financial crises, booms and depressions spread across international boundaries?" This venture, sponsored by the National Bureau of Economic Research, was linked with Morgenstern's continuing work as director of a team of economists and mathematicians concerned with some of the basic problems of the American economy.

Morgenstern, an able linguist with command of six languages and formerly director of the Austrian Institute for Business Cycle Research, has been in the forefront of those relating the celebrated "theory of games" to social and economic behavior. Long before economists and psychologists started obtaining foundation grants for such projects as "The Business Game," Morgenstern pointed out: "Some economic and business problems can be set up as game problems; it is possible to conceive of the happenings in a market as strictly equivalent to the events and procedures in a game of strategy as poker."

For his authorship of one of the most provocative books of the year; for his contributions in the sphere of political economy; for his searching concern for the things that count most on the threshold of the 1960's; he is Town Topics' nominee for

HIGHER SALARIES PLANNED

For Princeton Teachers. A new salary schedule to provide pay raises for all teachers in both Princeton Borough and Princeton Township was adopted this week by the two Boards of Education.
The new schedule, which would go into effect beginning next Fall, was approved by the Township board at a special meeting Monday and by the Borough board at its regular meeting Tuesday.

The program will bring Princeton close to the top of New Jersey school districts in salaries.
The new minimums, which will go into effect for the 1960-61 school year in order to aid teacher recruitment, are: $4,500 for those with bachelor's degrees, $4,800 for those with master's degrees, and $5,100 for those with two years of education beyond a bachelor's degree. This compares with the current minimums of $4,000, $4,200, and $4,400, respectively.

The new maximums, which would not be in effect until the 1962-63 school year, would be $7,800, bachelor's degree; $8,500, master's degree, and $9,100, two years beyond bachelor's degree.
This compares with current maximums of $6,800, $7,300 and $7,800 respectively. Maximums are for teachers with 12 or more years of experience.

Impact of the pay increases on the tax rates of the two communities will not be known until the new school budgets are announced next month. The budgets will then have to be approved by the voters before the new salary schedule can go into effect. As was the case with the last salary increases adopted in 1957, however, these increases will be spread over the next three years in order to minimize the effects on tax rates. The plan is for 50 percent of the increases to go into effect for the 1960-61 school year, 25 percent more for 1961-62, and the final 25 percent in 1962-63.

In the Borough, a large share of the cost of the increases will be borne by the sending districts, whose current tuition payments comprise almost one-half the total school costs. Increased tuition rates for the school year 1960-61 were adopted by the Borough Board of Education at its Tuesday meeting. The rate for kindergarten through eighth grade was raised from $350 to $400, while the high school rate was raised from $540 to $580.

Joint Effort. The coordinated action, which represents a continuation of the cooperation between the two school districts begun in 1957, is a result of a study program conducted since last Spring. Two committees appointed to consider revision of teachers' salaries the Borough one headed by Dr. Jeremiah Finch and the Township one by John Dobbin, each met independently over the Summer and have been in joint consultation on the problem since early this Fall.

In a joint statement on the new schedule, Board Presidents Graham Rohrer of the Borough and William L. Wilson of the Township said: "The two Boards believe the Princeton community wants and will support a salary program to attract and keep well-trained and able teachers in its public schools."

"Realistic salaries," they added,
"which are competitive with other school districts, will help us achieve this by recognizing the excellent teaching already going on in the two districts and by attracting highly-qualified teachers for future replacement and expansion. At the same time, the effect on property tax rates was considered. The new schedule is an effective balance between somewhat conflicting requirements."

The new schedule will provide an identical salary guide for the 125 teachers in the Borough and 85 in the Township. That they will be on a par salary-wise with the best school systems in New Jersey can be seen by comparing the new Princeton figures with those of comparable school districts. In Montclair, for instance, the present minimums are $4,300, $4,500 and $4,700, with maximums of $7,400, $7,900 and $8,400. In South Orange, Maplewood, minimums are $4,300, $4,500 and $4,700, and maximums are $7,200, $7,900 and $8,500. Other school districts comparable to Princeton have similar salary scales.

Many of these districts, of course, are now considering revision of these schedules, which are those reported by the New Jersey Education Association for the 1959-60 school year. In Newark, however, the maximums for 1960-61, unless revised again this year, will be $7,900, $8,200, and $8,500. The latter two are less than the new Princeton maximums, and the first one is only $100 more.

He is Edwin Campion, replacement for George Dixon who left the Township to become principal of the elementary school in Lawrence Township. Mr. Campion, with eight years' teaching experience, has taught in Freehold, Salem, Plainfield and Delaware Park.

Raymond F. Male, mayor of the Borough of Princeton and commuter to Trenton, was confirmed this week as Commissioner of Labor by the Senate Judiciary committee. It was one of the Senate's final actions before adjourning until January 12.

The Senate also approved and sent to Governor Meyner a bill authorizing the $66,800,000 in bonds OK'd by New Jersey voters in the last election. The Governor's signature, pending as TOWN TOPICS went to press, is expected shortly. As a result of the encephalitis outbreak this summer, the state Senate has approved $100,000 for mosquito research at Rutgers.

QUADRANGLE APPROVED

After Three-Hour Confab. The changing face of Princeton, most evident in recent years within the burgeoning acres of Princeton Township, was very much in the picture this past Monday evening in the "built-up, traffic-harried Borough of Princeton."

Following more than three hours of at-times heated deliberation, the nine-member Borough Planning Board by an 8-1 vote "reported favorably" to the Zoning Board on Princeton University's proposal to erect its $3,000,000 Engineering Quadrangle on University Field.

Inherent in the Planning Board's approval of Princeton's construction plans, based on a motion made by Board Vice-Chairman Martin L. Beck and seconded by Republican State Chairman Charles R. Erdman Jr., was the recommendation that the University move its projected units "as great a distance as possible in a southerly direction" (towards Prospect Avenue) in order to insure an adequate vehicle right-of-way between lots fronting on Nassau Street and the planned quadrangle.

The proposed right-of-way, "opening up" the rear of the deep lots facing on Nassau Street between Olden Avenue and Murray Place and implementing the "Official Map" adopted by the Borough in 1955-1956, was the principal bone of contention in an argument often involving four lawyers representing as many different interests.

After the necessary "re-advertising," dictated by State Law and Borough Ordinance, the Board of Adjustment will meet December 11 to ponder, and to disapprove or approve, the Planning Board's "favorable report."

UNDERGRADUATE KILLED

DECISIONS PENDING

For Tenacre and Country Club. Detailed plans for 21 units housing elderly guests were presented Monday night to the Township Zoning Board by the Tenacre Foundation on The Great Road. After coming to the presentation and to neighbors who expressed both approval and disapproval, the Zoning Board decided to ask the Township Planning Board for recommendations before proceeding.

Truener's drawings show seven units of three apartments each. They are connected by a covered passway to a community building with common and reading rooms, a banquet room and offices. These structures would be behind the present Tenacre buildings in a thickly-wooded area considerably removed from The Great Road.

Tenacre anticipates an elderly population which is more or less middle and not bedridden, and the design worked out by Kenneth Kessler, architect, includes individual gardens where guests may grow flowers and vegetables. J. Burwell Harrison, director of the Christian Science rest home, said that the buildings have been designed to accommodate a maximum of 40 persons, both single men and women and couples. He estimated that only 30 guests might be in residence in the new dwellings at any one time, and that only 10% of these might require nursing care.

Objections raised. Halford Jay, Cedar Grove Road, expressed apprehension at the continued growth of Tenacre. "I have nothing against Tenacre," he explained, "I just oppose any expansion in this residential area." Daniel Cherry, The Great Road, said he objected to trucks making deliveries at Tenacre and felt that the new units would increase this traffic. Mr. Harrison said he would do anything he could to relieve truck traffic.

The question of sewage disposal was raised by Hugh D. Wise, Jr., attorney for Mrs. Catherine Monck, whose property adjoins Tenacre.

"Tenacre's sewer is 'noticeable' at some distance," Mr. Wise said, "and its overflow goes over several nearby properties. We think there should be a public sewer connection instead of the private disposal plant Tenacre now has, satisfied that the present arrangement will be adequate and proper for any new additions. Mrs. Harrison said that the state inspected the Tenacre sewer plant three or four times a year and that the foundation would be glad to hook into a sewer whenever one is built in the area.

The Zoning Board heard W. Bryce Thompson IV present gen-

The early part of this week was further proof of frequent dampness, as hotter than an inch of rain on Tuesday sent November precipitation totals above average for the month. This served to match the trend set in September and October. Thanksgiving figures to be clear and cool, but there's possibility of more rain by Friday. eral information from state geologists on the Mt. Lucas-Poor Farm Road area where Lawn Inc. hopes to build a country club. The Board told him to come back with a complete layout showing water supply sources and sewer laterals and a scale drawing of parking lots. The Planning Board, before which Mr. Thompson appeared earlier this month, has not sent recommendations concerning Lawn, Inc. to the Zoning Board. Joseph Shinn, secretary of the Zoning Board, has assured Mr. Thompson informally that the Board is in favor of his project in principle, but that more specific plans are required before approval can be granted.

News Of The THEATRES

SHOW OPENS FRIDAY

At Playmill, The Community Players' presentation of Sean O'Casey's "I Knock at the Door" will open this Friday at the Playmill. The show will be staged for six nights in all, this Friday and Saturday, plus December 4 and 5 and December 11 and 12. Tickets are available now at the University Store.

"I Knock at the Door," which is an autobiography with music, is considered one of the most beautiful works of the Irish playwright. It is noteworthy for its sensitive insight into the youth of the author, who was born and raised in the slums of Dublin, not learning to read until he was 12 years old. First published in 1939, "I Knock at the Door" was produced at the Belasco Theatre in New York in 1967.

Stanley Garber will have the role of narrator, with Tirzah Berthoff as the mother, Roland Berthoff as the father and Frances Keene as Ella. Others in the cast are Foster Andrews, Jane Andrews, William Snow, Katherine Post, John Stiles, Reed Armstrong, Elias Baker, Montgomery Davis, Jack Lombard, Charles Lord and Laurinda Good.

John Becker is serving as director, with Constance Loux as his assistant. Mr. Becker, a freelance television producer in New York, is well-known to Princeton audiences for his direction of other Playmill presentations, including "Under Milkwood," "Ah, Wilderness," "Hasten the Day" and "Amphitryon 38."

Meeting Sunday, The Community Players will meet Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Playmill. Guest speaker will be Hugh Hardy, who will discuss the Lincoln Arts Center. Mr. Hardy, who was graduated from Princeton University in 1954 and the School of Architecture in 1956, is now an assistant designer on Jo Mielzner's staff. He has worked on "Sweet Bird of Youth" and "Gypsy" and is now doing interior design for the Repertory Theatre of the Lincoln Arts Center.

LEHRER WELL LIKED

By Capacity McCarter Audiee. At 8:30 last Saturday evening, a bespectacled ex-lavard professor appeared on the McCarter Theatre stage, introduced himself as "the greatest talent America has produced in the last 200 years," and then sat down at the piano to prove it. Two hours later, the highly-amused standing-room audience unanimously agreed that composer and singer Tom Lehrer had failed miserably to back up his claim, but no one seemed to care.

Mr. Lehrer did however substantiate his second introductory promise. He proposed to "take the kind of songs we all know and love and sort of kick them when they're down." The result was, as he warned, "a mixture of the ridiculous and the obscene, or what New Yorkers call sophisticated."

Most of Mr. Lehrer's offerings were taken from the LP record which he first cut in 1963 and which has sold over a quarter of a million copies to date. His diversified selections included a "survival hymn" entitled "We Will All Go Together When We Go" which he dedicated to Dr. Edward Teller; a hunting song, "Two Game Wardens, Seven Hunters, And A Cow"; and such love songs as "The Masochism Tango," "The Wiener Schnitzel Waltz" and "I Hold Your Hand In Mine."

Early in the program, Mr. Lehrer traced his development as a performer calling it "an incredible career in the field of entertainment starting with nine years at Harvard." Always aware of his academic background, Mr. Lehrer took credit for translating the "Wizard of Oz" into Latin. He claimed that his text still stands as the standard Latin edition.

Two old Lehrer standbys, "Eight Ecclesly Harvard" and "Be Prepared," were also included in the program. Among other selections were "Poisoning Pigeons in the Park," "I Want to Go Back to Paris," "Bright College" — Continued on Page 6

GIELGUD CANTS SPELL

In "Ages of Man" Sir John Gielgud, who appeared on McCarter's stage last Thursday night before an enthusiastic audience, presented a well-coordinated one-man show devoted to Shakespeare's plays and sonnets. On stage for almost 2½ hours, with two intermissions, he recreated a variety of characters, including Shakespeare himself. Leading stand on a table was placed in the rear of the stage, to which Sir John referred between offerings.

For the most part, before launching into a given speech, he stepped back a few paces and then advanced center stage to the footlights. The technique added liveliness to the presentation, and Sir John never hesitated to move and gesture with fine dramatic flourish.

Although much of the material was completely familiar, the actor breathed new life into the monarchs and lovers and the ultimate humanity of the characters came through in an intimate style. The only quibble might be with Hamlet's speeches in which Sir John tried to be a little too "differential" particularly in the endings and phrasing.

Program Varies: Telling his three acts "Youth," "Manhood" and "Old Age" Sir John gave, in the first and last portions, an especially poignant portrayal of Romeo, transforming the sentimentally so often associated with the character into a pulsing picture of thwarted love. The balcony and death scenes were included, as well as Mercutio's Queen Mab speech, which provided effective contrast to the straight love scenes.

In the second act, the kings hold forth: Richard II, Henry IV and Henry VI. Richard's speech in which he resigns his kingship was beautifully delivered, as was the looking-glass speech. Hotspur, a man of action rather than thought, eloquently defended his actions before Henry IV. And turning once again, Sir John gave a rapid and touching portrayal of Henry VI, a king who would be shepherd.

Again in the third act, the trials and tribulations of kings and nobles, as they neared the end of their careers, were presented with drama and tears. The audience shared the insomnia of Henry IV, and wept for England's diminished stature with John of Gault. In Richard III, Clarence's dream of drowning was admirably presented. Sir John made the occasions seem as horrible as it is not have been to Clarence.

Sonnets Well Done. Inter-spersed among the torments and vicissitudes of lovers and kings were the sonnets, pithy and quiet, each a gem. Shakespeare's deepest feelings, and perhaps his finest language, on love and life sparkled through the measured rhymes and couplets, thanks to Sir John's penetrating delivery.

A welcome addition to the essentially serious nature of the program was a short poem to the poet's mistress, whose many shortcomings apparently did not impede the flow of love. Sir John also gave humorous twists to other poems, entirely in keeping with Shakespeare's overall theme.

Prospero Weak. In closing the program, Sir John chose three selections from "The Tempest." His portrayal of Prospero did not quite ring true, as the wizard renounced his magic powers and prepared to return to his Italian dukedom. Following King Lear's tragic speech when he finds his favorite daughter dead (this was done superbly), these speeches did not fit in somehow with the picture of tragic old age presented in the preceding lines. The epilogue from "The Tempest," however, was marvelously done and was just the right touch for the end of the evening. Princetonians were treated to a rare evening with "The Ages of Man," and the University Players should be congratulated for bringing such a superlative actor to McCarter.

FRENCH FILM TUESDAY

In 10 McCosh Hall, "Symphonie Pastorale," starring Michele Morgan and Pierre Bleniere, will be shown Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in 10 McCosh Hall on the University campus.

The program is one of a series sponsored by the French Club of Princeton University. Admission is 50 cents, with subscriptions for the rest of the series available at $2.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Beloved Infidel (November 25-December 1) is a 123-minute tale about two people who purport to be F. Scott Fitzgerald and Shellah Graham but do nothing to substantiate the claim. Fitzgerald is impersonated by Gregory Peck, while Miss Graham, the Hollywood columnist, is played by Deborah Kerr. Others in the uniformly distinguished cast are Eddie Albert, Philip Ober, Herbert Rudley, Karin Booth, Ken Scott, Buck Class and A. Cameron Grant. ### FOR YOU Personally. This week we consider personal gifts for men and women and the party clothes that put tinsel on the holiday weeks ahead.

We send you off to a holiday party in some of the most opulent clothes you've seen in some time. Take your pick from these, the prettiest ones in town:

Rosette Pennington: Black lace affair, very low back, very thin straps...straight black satin skirt with black lace top over beige...tonado red chiffon with three-quarter sleeved jersey top.
Bailey's: orlon pile evening jacket in satie brown...junior emerald green taffeta skirt with navy embroidered top, spaghetti straps...permanently pleated skirt, nylon, in lilac, red, black, white or print with black velvet sash around neck top.

18th Century Bouquet and Boutique: heavy brocade theater suit in gold-crested Persian print...black satin, man-tailored dinner suit with white satin blouse...a sheath of mustard and gold brocade...a long dirndl which

Elsie Goupil: blouses of red, old ivory, ruby in stained glass prints to go above black skirts...floor length lame sheath...Hong Kong brocades in Chinese red, emerald, sapphire, gold, a dozen styles to choose from.

Mary Gill: Black lace over cafe au lait taffeta, three-quarter sleeves flares up to 18"...strapless emerald satin, empire bodice...powder blue wool jersey, satin cummerbund, steel heading braided around collarless jacket.

Mayme Mraz: royal purple satin ball gown, heart-shaped neckline, straight down the front with full box pleats at back...straight, floor-length sheath, teal blue and gold, sashed with an obi...black taffeta in the Victorian manner with elaborately puffed short skirt like a little girl's apron, spaghetti straps.

The French Shop: short evening jacket of white orlon pile lined with red velvet...several short sheaths in Nylon, a supple gold or silver metallic fabric rather like a gold mesh...junior dance dresses in ancient tans of silk chiffon...for sizes 16 and up, flame silk chiffon with wide cowl neck, full skirt.

Mary Chapin: Dusty pink tapestry straps, or move satin full skirt with tapestry top, or tapestry theater suit...simple, short-sleeved dress in green satin brocade with gold embroidered daisies.

Bellows: silk peau d'ange willow green sheath with wide collar that slants down to waist rose...junior candlelight brocade sheath, square neck, three-quarter sleeved mandarin collar jacket...white silk chiffon strapless dance dress with shirred bodice, big red rose.

Kung Ping: classic Chinese sheaths, short, in Hong Kong embroidered brocade, brilliant red, black, silver-grey, willow green...same style in more muted colors: steel blue-grey rayon and a silk mixture.

Side Dishes: Evening bags to hold your holiday mood come in all sizes, styles and prices. Rosette Pennington paints lips, eyes, keys and coins in iridescence on an irreverent little bag. The

Watch the Calendar

For people who Plan Ahead, two shops in town provide Christmas offerings that you have to think about and order in advance.

At 18th Century Bouquet and Boutique, there is a collection of delightful silver jewelry by Mike Stouman. It is all flat with no "relief" anywhere (except possibly in the fig-leaf on a rakish-looking Eve).

Mr. Stouman puts on a pin or attaches to a neck chain, a preposterous rooster, a Thanksgiving turkey, a Thanksgiving which would outrage any Indian, a couple of impish quail, a one-inch asterisk called "Footnote" and "Christmas Trees," which is just a collection of outlined triangles.

One of the pieces is a silver name, with the letters arranged in a pleasantly helter-skelter manner, and this you must order ahead. The other pieces are on display, ready for the check-book.

Also to be ordered in advance is a collection of Christmas clothes at Mary Chapin. From swatches of Christmas red or green, or matching prints, you choose slacks, evening skirt, shirt, jersey in almost any style you like, from the Phelps' Deep Cooty collection. Allow a week between choice and delivery.

Cummins Shop has gold mesh bags, key cases and pill boxes (what kind of party are you going to, anyhow!) including one bag no larger than your palm. Another little one is crystal and pearl, and there are big fold-over clutch bags in all the satin colors. Clayton's has an exquisite bag ($25) thickly strewn with seed and opalescent pearls, with a narrow rope of beads across the silver frame of the bag and around the handle. It's a jewel in itself. Other bags here are made with an all-over pattern of cut beads in luminescent green, navy, grey or gold. A three-inch half circle of a bag is completely covered with black beads.

Iridescent flowered silk makes a snap purse at Mary Chapin. Lots of $1 cosmetic bags this year can be used as evening bags and who will know? Stone's Linen Shop has these in red, turquoise, blue or gold brocade and so does Thorne Pharmacy. Some at The Cummins Shop, too. The French Shop sews gold beads over pastel snap purses, or sends you off with a satin purse in any color you like.

From Hult's collection, choose a shoe made entirely of clear vinyl. You'll be Cinderella. An opalescent crystal pompon decorates one toe, a rhinestone T-strap goes up one instep, gold or silver tracery decorates two of the models. Then there's a satin

MEMO—For Christmas

TO AN APPRECIATIVE HUSBAND...

Have you reflected, lately, in mingled wonder and gratefulness upon the wonderful person who cast her lot with yours?

Even as you read this message she is perhaps moving about the family rooms preparing the youngsters for school, tiding up your den, doing work that is not work because it is inspired by love. What a great treasure is yours in her day-long and life-long service. In the offerings laid so generously upon the shrine of her affections...you!

If her birthday or your wedding anniversary is coming soon, you can express your esteem and devotion by surprising your wife with the gift of a fine Onyx watch...perhaps one bedecked with diamonds. Its muted tick, day after day, will be a faithful reminder of your affection and love. Let us help with your selection.

News Of The Theatres

The film is taken, was a figure of considerable tragedy; in "The loved Infidel" he emerges as a slight, self-pitying drunk. Moreover, printed evidence gives rise to the suspicion that Miss Graham herself was more than the weepy, shallow woman that Miss Kerr makes of her. The story, in the unconvincing screenplay by Sy Bartlett, is nothing more than the saga of an intermittently sober, broken-down screenwriter who has an affair with a newspaper-woman who remembers him when he was a great man and cries quite a lot about it. "Beloved Infidel" is in color, CinemaScope and stereophonic sound.

A Summer Place, (December 1-5) features Richard Egan, Dorothy McGuire, Sandra Dee, Arthur Kennedy and Constance Ford in a brutally frank saga of extra-marital love that poses a lot of pertinent moral questions but fails to come up with very convincing answers. In Technicolor, the film is an adaptation of the best-seller of the same name by Sloan ("The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit") Wilson.

Miss McGuire and Egan were lovers in their youth when he was a lifeguard at the exclusive resort where her wealthy family spent the summers. They married other people and had one child each; conveniently, one girl (Sandra Dee) and one boy (Troy Donahue). Now the situations are reversed: Egan is wealthy and he brings his family to the inn operated by Miss McGuire and spouse, who are in somewhat strained circumstances. In a word, Miss Dee's dad and Donahue's mom realize they were meant for each other all along, have an affair, get divorces and marry each other. Meanwhile, the youngsters themselves fall in love and marry after it is discovered that Miss Dee is going to have a baby. Performances are generally good, despite the shallowness of the screenplay.

THE GARDEN

Anatomy of Love (November 24-28) is an excellent film, a sort of filmic collection of short stories on various manifestations of that highest of all human emotions. The stars are Vittorio DeSica, making his second appearance at The Garden within a week, Sophia Loren, the comic Toto, Lea Padovani, Michael Simon and Maria Fiore. The film's episodes are uniformly well - done, with moods ranging comely to poignancy. "Anatomy of Love" is in Italian with English titles. Recommended.

No Time For Comedy (November 30, a 1940 release, is a sprightly little comedy about a hunched over lawyer sophisticated comic plays and a big-city lady who tries to lure him away from his home and hearth. Staff members include James Stewart (looking more like an undergraduate than a trustee), Rosalind Russell and Charles Ruggles.

Stewart, fresh from Redford, Minn., arrives in the city to attend rehearsal of his first play. Although nobody can believe De la Jimmy is the author, the play is a hit and pretty soon he's an established playwright and married to Miss Russell. Genevieve Tobin, wife of millionaire Ruggles, attempts to lure Stewart down the primrose path; her method is to convince him he's too important to write mere comedy. Soon he's dissatisfied with his hit, and Miss Russell's attempts to regain his attentions are highlighted in several amusing scenes. A lot has changed since 1940, but Stewart and Miss Russell are still an appealing pair.

Sign of the Gladiator (December 1-5) is another of those boy-did-they-have-a-lot-of-people running-around-in-ancient-Rome-spectacle films, made notable chiefly by the presence of Anita Ekberg, who is infinitely more attractive than Victor Mature, who usually stars in these things. Miss Ekberg plays Zenobia, voluptuous Queen of Egypt, whose barbaric leadership of her Syrian army almost overthrows Rome during the reign of Aurelian.

Now, we hate to appear cynical or skeptical, but Miss Ekberg looks about as much like a barbaric military leader as does Wally Cox. She unquestionably looks good, but not warlike. Still, she rides through the interminable, continually crowded, noisy and gory battles as if it were enjoying herself. There's less ambiguity about her armored boyfriend, George Marshall; he's definitely enjoying himself. The picture, in color, was made in Europe and the sound track is dubbed. The cost of thousands milis cents.

sandal in white, gold or silver, and a white silk pump which can be dyed to match your eyeline. Either the Thorne or Nassau Pharmacy will take care of those eyelines, and Nassau Pharmacy will also spangle your nails with Cutex' gold sequin polish.

Is the coach ready? From an Old Goat. Don't be so sensitive, grandfathers: we were referring to the 1959 cashmere sweater crop. 18th Century has a small but awesome collection from Giovagnoli of Rome at prices lower than you might think. Wool flowers have been embroidered in three dimensions on a myrtle blue sweater; panels of oyster white lace cover the entire front of one grey sweater, with grey velvet ribbon insertion following the lace and ending in a waist bow. On a black sweater, geraniums, daisies, larkspur have been appliqued over the whole front and around the collar of the neck. Hand-painted detail has been done to each organly flower.

At Bellows, you'll find a lamba wool cardigan in white with fat red tulips in fuchsia, royal and lemon felt standing right out as though they were in flower pots. $19.95.

Town Shop's cashmires are buttonless cardigans: blue edged with three-inch bands of silver lace, coral with velvet trim or white with knots of satin mulling each corner. Clayton's Drumming classics are olive brown, deep green, deep tomato red or mustard gold, all destined to go with ancient tartan skirts.

In Queen Size, Too. Bellows Dalton cashmires are classic (22-55) or cropped ($21.95) in any color you want, including taupe. Dressmaker cashmires at 18th Century go up to size 44 in soft styles that any woman can wear. Hadley is the classic name at The Clothes Line, $22.95, all colors.

At the English Shop, those hand-made Danapur sweaters knit with telephone poles, have great appeal for the outdoor gal. On a smaller scale, so do the Shetlands in heather tones with one-inch knit patterns worked into the neckband.

Kitt 'N Gora at Mary Gill and Clayton, is a fur blend in rich colors like wool, with three-quarter sleeves, collars in some styles, and fine lagging worked into the bodice. Mayme Meade likes fur blends, too, as table. Both Mr. Rebenfeld and his wife heard a noise at the time of the theft, but thought nothing of it until about 40 minutes later when Mrs. Rebenfeld discovered the bag containing $3, was missing. It was found the next day on the lawn of 19 Pardee Road.

In his final excursion, the sneak thief entered the back door at 92 Battle Road, home of Mr. and Mrs. Wells Drobough, on November 7 between 8 and 9:30 p.m. The purse he stole, containing loose change, was found the same night about 9:30 on the Rosedale Road by John Hill.

Township police are investigating the thefts and Police Chief James B. Campbell, Jr. has issued a warning to Township-at-Borough—home owners to keep doors locked.

ALERT SCHEDULED

Public Civil Defense Exercise. There will be a full-scale public defense disaster control exercise throughout the state on Monday, December 7, the 18th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor. The day has been designated "National Civil Defense Day."

A steady, three-minute "Alert" will sound about 11:30 a.m. and the final "All-Clear" will come at 1:40 p.m. Civil Defense officials will test their communications and rehearse their duties during the first part of the drill and no public action will be required at this time.

Then, at 1:30 p.m., a "Take Cover" signal will sound. Wheeled traffic will stop, pedestrians will take shelter and those in business offices and schools will go to assigned shelter areas.

"DANCE AND DROWN"

Teen Program Begins at "Y". A new YMCA-YWCA program designed for teen-agers will be launched this Friday evening with a "Dance and Drown" party, beginning with a swim from 8:15 to 9:30 and continuing with a dance from 9:30 to 11 p.m. All high-school age residents of Princeton are invited.

The new program, to be called the "Y Co-Ed Teen Club," has been planned by a council of young people representing the four high-school classes. According to present plans, 100 members will be admitted to the club. Meetings will be held twice a month on Friday evenings and there will be small group gatherings devoted to crafts, rockery, radio, model making, music and so on.

Special excursions will be made according to the interests of club members. There will be field trips to colleges, co-ed camping programs, bowling or skating evenings and so on.

A limited number of tickets will be available for this Friday's "Dance and Drown" party, the number limited by the size of the "Y" pool. They may be obtained from the Y Center on Avalon Place.

Officers of the Teen Planning Council are Lucarna King, president; Mary Lombardo, vice-president and Susan Rugg, secretary-treasurer.

CERAMICS PROGRAM BEGINS: Princeton Township has started a Friday night-Saturday morning ceramics class for boys and girls, fifth through twelfth grade. At the first meeting Friday night, 40 eager ceramists were turned away because the class was full. Saturday morning, half an hour before the class started, 15 children were waiting at Valley Road School for the teacher, Mrs. E. E. Holington, to appear. Because of the demand, an additional Saturday morning class has been started. Kathy Law, left, sixth grader at Valley Road, and her sister, Sara, ninth grade student, both of 98 Random Road, work on their first project. (Staff Photo.)

READINGS TO BE GIVEN

At Hadassah Meeting, David Parnes will present humorous dramatic readings and Mrs. Sidney Rosen will sing several songs at the forthcoming meeting of the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah to be held Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Princeton Jewish Center. Mrs. Irving Glasman has arranged a display of hospital supplies needed for Israeli hospitals. Hadassah raises funds in this country for the purchase in Israel of hospital linens, uniforms, layettes and other equipment.

SCOUTS ARE ACTIVE

In Community Work, Girl Scout troops in Princeton are participating in a community service project by collecting clean white sheets, old shirts and similar items which can be used by the Princeton Committee on Cancer Dressings. Adult members of this committee use the material to roll dressings which are then distributed throughout Mercer County.

At present, 12 girls in the 7th grade need an adult leader before their troop can be activated. Women who have had Girl Scout leader training, or who are interested in taking such training, may call the Girl Scout office at 4 Green Street for further details.

VOLUNTEERS' VALUE DEBATED: The question of whether or not the town has outgrown its volunteer fire department is answered by Princeton residents. John Bernard (left) and Roert Schmidt feel that the volunteer firemen do as good a job, if not better, than paid firemen would, but others are not so sure. For the varying opinions, see below. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: It has been suggested that Princeton has outgrown the volunteer system in maintaining a fire department and that full-time, professional firemen are needed for maximum safety. How do you feel about this?

Where Asked: Around town.

Harold M. Hinkson, Sr., 222 Mt. Lucas Road, owner, Hinkson's stationery store: A full-time fire department would cost the Borough of Princeton $250,000 a year or more in salaries alone—and that is based on a low, $1000 annual salary. That figure also includes the barest minimum number of men that would be needed. As soon as you get in one paid fireman, your entire volunteer system is shot. Not only would taxes go up but fire insurance as well. Right now, Princeton residents are getting the lowest fire insurance rates possible.

Mrs. Edward Sampson, 100 Lafayette Road, housewife: Sounds like common sense to me.

Americo Arcamont, 22 Chestnut Street, taxi driver: As far as I can tell, the volunteer fire department has done a good job. I think Princeton isn't ready for professional firemen just yet. It would cost quite a bit and taxes would go up. If Princeton would increase another 10,000 in population, then I'd say, yes. The volunteer firemen are pretty fast and they try to get to a fire as quickly as they can.

Miss Sally Johnson, 100 John Street, maid: I don't believe that Princeton could afford to pay for a full-time fire department. Half the time when a fire breaks out they have to leave their jobs and by the time they get there the building is caving in. Another point is that many people wait too long to turn in an alarm and by the time the firemen get there it is too late.

Irving Mershon, 159 Nassau Street, owner, O. H. Hubbard Agency: I still feel that the volunteer firemen in Princeton are doing a good job. A paid fire department at the present time is not necessary or desirable. If you go to an alarm box in Princeton, in three minutes you've got help. One of the most sensible things our Council has done is to admit Township residents to membership in the Princeton Volunteer Fire Department.

Mrs. Theresa Boyer, 41 Park Place, housewife: I agree with the suggestion 100 percent. The poor men are out of their beds at all hours of the night and with no appreciation. I do think a paid fire department is absolutely necessary.

Albert M. Wert, 17 Edwards Place, retired: I think the Princeton Volunteer Fire Department has done a very, very good job and I don't know of anybody who doesn't think so. I believe they've been very efficient.

Mrs. Ethel Lewis, 38 Wiggins Street: I think that would be a very good idea. I feel the size and population of the town requires a paid fire department.

Robert C. Schmidt, 40 Cedar craftsman at AT&T: I disagree wholeheartedly. I'm not a fireman but I have many friends in the volunteer fire department and I've found them to be readily available when the alarm has been sounded. And this is at any time—day or night. Any paid fire department would have to be a joint operation between the Borough and the Township and this would not only increase the taxes but the confusion as well.

Mrs. Luther Eisenmann, 548 Princeton-Kingsford Road, secretary: I think the volunteer firemen are outstanding jobs. At the fire the other night at Bert Galka's, the firemen were there in about three and a half to four minutes.

Deanis Doornekamp, Province Line Road, gardener: I should say that every business like the first aid and fire company should be a regular, full-time job, so that when there is a fire, they don't have to come from far away places. Keep the four or five volunteer fire companies but have one on a full-time basis for emergencies so they can leave right away.

Mrs. A. W. Hobler, Great Road, housewife: It's interesting you ask me because we had a fire about ten weeks ago and I've never seen such service. They did a terrific job. I think the volunteer fire department did a better job than a paid one would have. I talked to a few of them afterwards and they all seemed to have a sort of pride in their co-operation and in doing a good job. Professionals couldn't have done a better job, I'll say that.

John F. Bernard, 15 Chambers Street, insurance broker: I think in most communities that a volunteer fire department does a much better job than a paid one. Volunteer departments pride themselves on the job they do and are usually made up of men from all walks of life who are not dependent on the inadequate salary which would probably be paid in order to perform conscientiously their fire-fighting duties. I believe that a more important question would be concerning the provision of whether or not there are uniform fire-fighting uniforms between the Borough and Township.

James Pace, 79 Prospect Avenue, manager, Princeton Charter Club: I am not in favor of a paid department or even the thoughts of a semi-paid department. The figures prove that we have an efficient and serviceable department. The proof is your low fire insurance rates in the Borough of Princeton. I'd feel sorry for the taxpayers if they are burdened with an additional, approximately $200,000 a year tax load.

Volunteer System Defended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
 Mr. Tibbals' letter, which appeared in your last issue assures me that he did not get any information about the Princeton Volunteer Fire Department. I wonder how hard he tried.

Officers of the Fire Department appear twice yearly at the Country Day School, where Mr. Tibbals teaches, to conduct fire drills. Did he ever think of questioning them concerning the fire department?

The volunteer fire department is no "sacred cow," as Mr. Tibbals labels it, but it certainly is a department of the town very much connected with it. It is proud, and justly so, I might add.

I also believe there are many citizens of Princeton who are proud of it and will speak highly of its efficiency and speed in answering alarms. This speed and efficiency is best maintained if Mr. Tibbals and others will pull to the right of the road and let them the alarm system sound.

Because of our size, Mr. Tibbals' criticism of the fire department does not seem to be a fair criticism. He knows that nearby Hamilton Township (population 56,000), one of the largest townships in New Jersey, is served by volunteer fire departments. I believe Reading, Pennsylvania, is still served by volunteers, as are many other towns much bigger than Princeton.

A minimum sized paid department in Princeton would probably cost the taxpayers for salaries alone in the neighborhood of $250,000.

Another point I think Mr. Tibbals might have overlooked when he speaks of rescue efforts is that our two police departments are alerted immediately on a call for fire and are at the scene minutes before the fire department with rescue equipment of their own. Many of these policemen are volunteer firemen and trained in rescue measures.

I can assure Mr. Tibbals that the volunteer fire department has few, if any, shortcomings and can stand public scrutiny at any time.

Many of these firemen have children of their own and share Mr. Tibbals' fear of being in a predicament which might call for rescue. Perhaps that is why we rush to the fire houses day and night when the alarm goes in; that also is why we are not far behind a paid department in our speed in answering alarms.

In conclusion, I would welcome any inquiries from Mr. Tibbals in regard to the Princeton Fire Department and will answer any of his questions with an answer that he can depend on as not attempting to "cover up." I am the foreman-elect of Mercer Engine Company No. 3 and know the Princeton Fire Department through many years of association with it as an active member and the son of a former member and ex-chief. The adequacy of our system leaves nothing to be desired.

willow, royal, and so on. For ladies who like clothes to trim in, Royalty's shoe store has a Clark's Desert Boot in olive or black suede, lined with lamb wool and closed with a zipper — $14.95. Bailey's produces an all-leather bag with shawl collar and alpaca lining — $39.95.

Leather and Lace. It's the accessory that makes the fact sometimes, and turns basic black or basic tweed into something memorable. Accessories this year can be bag and baggage or satin and lace depending on the disposition of the who gives and she who receives.

In handbags, the year belongs to Etienne Aigner whose massive creations in leather, linen and brass appear at Bellows, Mary Chapin and 18th Century. These are hand-stained cowhide, studded with brass, designed for utility at its handsomest and fashioned to last a fashion lifetime.

The smallest is a five-inch Perry bag (about the size of a wallet) that can be carried alone. There is also a small snap bag with loop handle at one end. It will hold a little bit more. Then there are the big babies, for tall gals whose proportions call for an oversized bag. Prices are in the $20's and $30's except for the two mentioned above.

The Clothes Line has similar bags by Fueller, as you probably know, with leather belts to match. One Chapin belt has a brass for head for a huckle. Another has a dull silver horse on a belt loop that can slip around to decorate your back, if you wish.

The Calf and the Gator, Bellows likes an accordion bag in antique brown or black calf lined with red leather. Pull it out and it stands up, sturdy as a suitcase. Classic alligator bags here are $25 and $35, in various shapes. The bucket bag comes up from the Cummings' well in avocado suede for $3.50. Cinnamon suede dogies from a gold and leather chain. Punch in the top of a U-shaped leather bag designed to hold hats. On a more conventional bag, there is a large brass triangle fastening and a row of cording around the edge, similar to the cording on a slipover.

Brushed brass makes a broad horizontal frame for a black calf bag at The Town Shop. Slip into this bag a combination glasses case and snap purse in any one of a dozen colors.

For the hand that holds the bag, there is the Bellows' glove made in France exclusively for this shop in all colors and color combinations. Hand-stitching, silky leather, half a dozen designs, lengths up to 16-button, prices from $5.95 to $7.95. All are lined. An unlined glove in pale beige, black, navy or white is $4.95.

Bailey offers a sturdy lined leather glove for $2.98 in many colors including cream; fur-lined, the same glove is $3.95. Clayton —Continued on Page 15 has a glove in leatherweight calf lined with angora and arlon from $5.95 to $13.95 in lots of colors. Those brown suede gloves with hand-stitching and lamba wool lining are back again at Clayton's and The English Shop.

Black satin bells at 18th Century say "A rose is a rose..." and prove it with a giant fake rose satin belt at Clayton's are royal, olive or black. The English Shop has shaver gold boater ties, for ties with $2 karat legs. Hanes hosiery called "Barely There" or "Quickstiver" at Mayme Mend...flocked nylon argand, argand like fallen bed-jackets, at Stone's, a gold quilt with a ball point for $4 at R. B. Brown, near to $2 clothes brush with a frosting of pearls on its round top. Pinclun caps at Clayton's look like lace and nylon ties.

On the sober side, look at walters by Princess Gardiner at Nassau Pharmacy in bright blue, red, ivory, rose, some with a diagonal regimental stripe, some with key rings to match. Stone's wears a pale blue leather manicure set tipped to the top of a brush. B. B. Brown, near to $2 clothes brush with a frosting of pearls on its round top. Pinclun caps at Clayton's look like lace and nylon ties.

What's for Daddy? The English Shop says a necktie. Their prize ones are Italian silk in prints taken from classic ruins, or Scotch knit fine as woven wool and reversible. The knit stitches look like little fleur de lis on one side and pin-checks on the other, all microscopic. Many, many color combinations, narrow as a Scoutmaster's wallet.

Lahey's likes silk or challis ties. University Store and English Shop are strong on ascots in silk prints and the English Shop has a paisley silk scarf lined with cashmere in various matching solid colors.

Scarves at the U. Store are squares of paisley wool in dark shades. But a bright lemon yellow wool scarf looks best on a rainy day. On a nearby counter, all-leather gloves with flannel lining, grey suede dress gloves and enough driving gloves to take you to Rome and back.

Lahey has a wool and nylon sock by Jaeger, the oldest name in English wool, almost. It's charcoal, navy, brown or grey. And the Lahey handkerchiefs are the thing to put in that sock Christmas morning: rolled hem, finest linen, for $1.50. Hemstitched hem if you prefer.

Harry Ballot has shrink-resistant nylon and cashmere hose for $2.50 a pair, in black, grey or heather green.

Your traveling salesman will want the travel valet at Rosette Pennington. Designed to fit an attache or sample case, it has the look, zipper pockets for shaving brush and open pockets for socks and such, $7.50.

Pure bristle brushes for men are at Nassau Pharmacy where there is a special brush for somebody with a crew cut. These are $4.50 with natural wood backs and handles. A bath brush matches.

Nassau Bootery stocks Esquire to keep a man in a fine shine. The Shoecare Bar is a thing like a can-opener which hangs on the wall and holds your shoe while you polish. Complete with polishes, $5.95. A wooden Esquire shoe valet with four cans of polish and a couple of brushes is also available.

To order at Brophy's, there is a Cadillac of a shoe-shine arrange. This is an electric shoe-buffer for $29.95, similar to the one Mr. Brophy has in his shop except that this one has two fleece buffers, not just one. (No, no, no, grandfather! Just lift one foot off the floor at a time!)

They Make the Man. Lamba wool and cotton make a washable sports shirt at Harry Ballot's. It's $15, plaid, soft and warm as a lamb. An all-cashmere pullover in grey or green is $27.50... a washable tie print robe is $12.50.

The English Shop sells Roder's Gannet car coat made of a fabric that welds or laminates or something so that waterproof outside is stuck to the lining inside. Grogg lambwool cardigan, a new, softly tweedy cashmere slip-over and Vellovia vests are close to the English heart.

University Store's slip-over is hand-knit, pure side out. A golf jacket, up to size 44, is washable Supima cotton, so wear it in the rain. Unlined, Glenagles Aquon wash-and-wear raincoat is a prize. Lahey's thinks so, too.

Sports shirts at Lahey's are woven like a fine basket in dark tones. Dark prints in woven cotton compete. Arrow and Jaysen are the makers.

Brophy presents Pompell, a suede loafer in tomato red, olive brown or cinnamon for $9.95, or a terry-cloth slipper with elastic across instep and contrasting lining. Wear either after a day in the open in the calfskin boot, thickly soled with rubber, thickly lined with shearing. And for the traveler, a paisley ease with paisley-lined pigskin slippers — $3.95.

Shree Leisure. Women's lingerie is so voluminous at Christmas time that it's impossible to do more than choose one or two pieces from each closet. We'll try to tempt you into discovering the rest yourself.

Edith's has Double Dating, a set consisting of men's white boxer shorts and women's white nylon briefs. They come in golf or gambling motif, the gambling worthless (dice, roulette wheels, etc.) the golf more articulate. Embroidered in red on the boxer shorts are "Eye on the ball," "Keep your knees bent," "Keep your head down," "Elbows in."

At Edith's, a white quilted nylon lounging set, trimmed for Christmas with embroidered red and green bolls, a Burgundy Jersey culotte, floor length, wide as a full skirt, with round-necked top... a white chiffon empire gown like a dancing dress... a double nylon tunic over-blouse with lace-trimmed pants (these are pajamas, actually)... violets on a blue gown, jacket and robe set, made for a blonde with blue eyes... a sheer tunic in pale pink with a full petticoat set off the shoulders by a wide, folded cord.

Bailey's has a dress-length gown in aqua with matching belt and applique trim. The French Shop has an unusual amber gold tricort trimmed with brown lace, and a gown of blue and white. This shop also shows a raspberry tricort overbush with knee-tight pants to match, and black lace for the trim.

Barizon's pastel Featherline gown is the favorite at Clayton's. They are cotton blend in short, waist or full length and they drip dry.

Tonight, You Do the Dishes. For lounging, Edith's has, besides the quilts, oton and nylon fleece robes from $12.98 and pure silk robes in the classic style. Elke Goupil has peignoirs of velvet with pink trim in Christmas red, and wisps on gold-painted sat cloth or quilted Chinese silk. Bailey has a floral axylon for $8.95 in pink or blue, up to sizes 44, raglan sleeve, round collar.

In gift lingerie, Edith's likes the pure silk slip gleaming with Alencon lace and embroidery for $17.95. A modestly lovely white nylon slip at $3.95 looks quite as Christmas. (Teen slip in this shop, by the way.) And there's a gaudy Christmas red set—slip, briefs, gown, knee-length pants. (Of course, it's a lovely shade of red, grandfather, but will it go with grandmother's white hair?) Clayton's has an unusual slip in primrose yellow, and others in pink or blue. One is white with lace edging over palest pink.

For the feet of tired Cinderellas, Hult's has gold stamined suede with Oriental straps in red or black velvet. Quieter damasks will like the Canadian moccasin with lambs wool collar and flannel lining. At Stone's, there is a cinnamon suede slipper with crinkle crepe sole and a stretch border. At 28th Century has a gold stretchie with a fat gold pompon of shredded gold cloth.

18-Karat. Marcel Boucher sends Bellows some fine tailored gold jewelry this year, prices beginning at $5.50. Hattie Carnegie has a pleasant combination of rhinestones and emeralds to offer, in necklaces and earrings. The Bellows costume jewelry collection looks like a pirate's treasure chest.

Camille has Christmas tree or Santa scatter pins in rhinestone emerald and ruby for about $1. A row of straight pins—or so it seems—dangles from a choker to make an unusual necklace for $1.

Mayme Mead has Trifari and Richelieu in gold and pearls and The English Shop has Monet in Florentine gold.

Rough cut semi-precious stones mounted in gold are at The Town Shop. They include a parrot whose body is a rough stone, bouquets of stones and so on.

Clayton's has a fine strand of flat pearls and crystals, hand-

Sleeve for Slim Becks

Diligence, strong character and skim milk will pare you down enough to get into the skinny pants that every single hostess in town is wearing for this holiday season.

These tuxedo pants are everywhere—spilling out of drawers, hanging in a rainbow from the skirt racks, ranged in a jewel-like palette on everybody's counter. They are velvet, tuxedo or brocade, in all the colors of a Spanish jewelbox: ruby red, brilliant turquoise, olive green, emerald, orchid, gold, raspberry, taupe, black.

You'll find them wherever you turn, even at Clayton's (black only, here). Bailey's puts a long-sleeved black matte jersey on top; Bellows a wild patchwork overbush of ruby, fuchsia olive and totem velvet; English Shop a brocade vest to match brocade pants; Rosette Pennington, pale green chiffon above tuxedo; Clayton's, a creamy cashmere cardigan banded with white satin; 18th Century Bouquet, a red satin blouse, emuidered with gold coils.

made in loving detail in earrings, bracelet and necklace. LaVake Reid sells all its charms to all corners. Fakman has a fine collection of religious jewelry for Christmas giving, and some lovely little pearl pendants.

Kung Ping dangles before you some Oriental dangling earrings in filigree gold or silver. Mothers-of-pearl has been used to fashion circles, sea-horses or good luck charms in earrings and pins.

If it's a watch this Christmas, Fakman says, why not a Bulova in that company's new $24.75 model for men or women. It's 17-jewel watch, eminently satisfactory in every way. Other Bulovas go up to $200.

LaVake Reid has, for men, tie-tacks made like cocktail glasses, or even like plain squares (no beatniks in this shop). There is a gold sunburst tie rack, too. Sleek gold pocket knives, gold keys for your car and a gold Christopher medal for travelers would fit into every stocking we know. Plain gold cut-links are ready for the engraver.

The Scent of Christmas, Max and The Prince and M. Coty are back, as though they'd ever been away, at the perfume counter, Thorne Pharmacy. Prince Matchabelli packs an exquisite gift package, "Threesome," with dusting powder, cologne and perfume. "Jesters" makes another Matchabelli Christmas confection and Perfume Honors is another collection from this house.

RICHARDS TO SHOW SLIDES

Of Hawaii, Australia. Alan Richards, Princeton photographer, will show slides of Hawaii and Australia next Thursday at 8 p.m. at the "X" Center, Avalon Place.
The presentation is the first in a free public affairs series sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA.

In his Hawaii collection, Mr.
Richards has slides of the "Arizons" and the "Utah" sunk during the attack on Pearl Harbor.
He will also show Hawaiian flowers, mountain and beach scenes, air views, school children, and scenes of industrial and agricultural activity. Pictures of William F. Quinn, governor, are also in-

Down from the Mountain

Walk along Nassau Street these days and you might as well be in the Austrian Tyrol.
The Tyrolean hat, which came shyly down from the high country some years ago, is apparently here to stay and so are the decorations that make it bloom like a field of edelweiss.

We refer to the Gembart pins and brushes that people stick into the handbands of their Tyrolean hats. Some are like big, old-fashioned shaving brushes, others are small, like the brush on a typewriter eraser. Some have no brush at all, just the one-inch dull silver pin with its snap-at-bay in low relief. It isn't a stag, it's a Gembart, which the highest authorities tell us is a mountain sheep.

Anyway, Tyrolean hunters wear these all over their hats and Princeton hunters also want to collect them will find plenty to choose from in the men's department at the University Store, at Mary Chapin (sure, women wear 'em too), and The English Shop.

ARTISTIC HOMES FOR XMAS

Theme at University Women.
Making their homes artistic for Christmas will be the subject of a meeting held by the American Association of University Women, Princeton Branch, Wednesday at 8:35 at the home of Mrs. Richard Young, Crescent Street, Rocky Hill. Mrs. Young will conduct a workshop in Christmas decorations.

Miss Elly Van Aalten is chairman of hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Donald Thiel, Dr. Lucy Markley and Mrs. Harold Wilner. Each member is asked to bring a favorite Christmas creation for display during the evening.

SPEAKER SCHEDULED

For Radcliffe Club. Dr. Mary I.
Bunting, president-elect of Radcliffe College, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Radcliffe Club to be held Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Dean and Mrs. Jeremiah S. Finch, Joseph Henry House.

Dr. Bunting, who will take office on February 1, will discuss higher education for women. The meeting is open to alumnae from the Princeton area, their guests and parents of Radcliffe students.

TO SELL PECANS

For Scholarships. The Douglass
College Alumni of the Princeton Area have undertaken a pecan sale to raise money for scholarships. Miss Emily Post of 90 Westcott Road is chairman.

The pecans, which will sell for $1.85 a pound, may be ordered by calling Miss Post at WA 4-0477.
Proceeds will be used to provide a scholarship to Douglass College for a girl from the Princeton area.

BUSINESS In Princeton

PETS UNLIMITED

From Canaries to Elephants. Noah's Ark, a new pet shop opening this Saturday and located at the former Silverstar Motor Company building at 259 Nassau Street, can special order anything from a canary to an elephant. "We actually do have connections to get an elephant for anyone who might want one," proprietor George Keyko said, adding, "We can get anything short of a saber tooth tiger."

Boarders of the Ark include a kinkajou or South American Honeybear, a black face Capuchin and cinnamon tinged monkey, all picked for their extreme gentleness and handling ease. Also on hand are some pygmy, doddiered skunks and an ocelot Ark, while they will not on display, the pet shop will be able to secure all breeds of pedigree dogs in addition to plans of nutt.

Mr. Keyko describes the kinkajou as "one of the most gentle things in the world and one of the finest, most unusual pets I know of." A member of the racoon family, the kinkajou is primarily a vegetarian, has a long tail, tiny, monkey-like hands, and is covered with a deep nap of soft, brown fur. This ideal house pet is only about ten inches long overall, full-grown, and can actually be housebroken.

For hard fanciers, the Ark has a complete line of finches and parakeets. On hand, too, is a pair of budgies or South American nightingales, multi-colored birds about the size of a half-grown rabbit. Additional maynab birds, the size and color of a crow with yellow markings and much less difficult to teach to talk than parakeets, have arrived in time to replace the one probably migrating his way back south that Mr. Keyko's son inadvertently let escape.

Over 40 varieties of tropical fish should keep aquarium owners busy checking out possible additions to their collection. For the more prosaic fish devotees, the Ark will carry standard four types of goldfish. To care for and feed fish and all other pets, NA carries a full line of all pet supplies.

The pet shop, which presently includes two converted offices (the bird and fish rooms) and the main show room of Silverstar Motors, will be open regularly from 9:30 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday. From the second week in December until Christmas, it will be open from 10 to 10. Edward Vetter, formerly of the Wine and Pin pet department of Gimbel's in New York, is manager of Noah's Ark.

NEW OFFICES APPROVED

Nine Unit Structure OK'd. Construction is scheduled to begin next week on a new nine-unit office building in the rear of 195 Nassau Street. The Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment approved the project at its regular meeting last Thursday. The owner of the property, W. Bryce Thompson IV, will remodel an existing garage into nine 900-foot areas which can be used as office or store space. Four of the units have been rented already, according to Mr. Thompson, and occupancy will be about March 1.

The building is part of a project which began with Mr. Thompson's renovation of the Thompson Building last summer and will continue with construction of a two-story building next to the Thompson Building. It will be started early next summer. The nine-unit, one-story building will be paneled on the inside, faced with brick on the outside and equipped throughout with air-conditioning. There is space in front for 45 cars.

Mr. Thompson is also president of Thompson Realty, Princeton's newest firm in this field, which opened for business this month. A real estate salesman for the past two years, he has announced that his firm "will specialize in one-of-a-kind homes rather than developments."

A native Princetonian and a Princeton High School graduate, Mr. Thompson is president of Princeton Research Lands, Inc. The corporation owns the largest area of land in the new research section of Princeton Township.

OPINION SERVICE FORMED

For Local Businesses. Formation of a Local Market Opinion Service has been announced by Robert W. Mangold, formerly of the Gallup enterprises. The new service, which will conduct consumer or market research for small businesses in this area, has its headquarters at 19 Maple Street.

Local Market Opinion Service is designed to serve retailers and manufacturers in Mercer and Middlesex Counties. Using modern methods of public opinion research, the new organization will bring to small businesses the same fact-finding tool now used by national concerns.

Believing that the value of knowing public opinion is vitally important to businesses with a small budget, Mr. Mangold will direct a program which will secure answers from the public to the problems of local businesses. He describes the program to be offered by his organization as "inexpensive, yet professional and confidential."

Mr. Mangold has had ten years experience with the Gallup enterprises. Positions he held included supervisor of interviewers, director of audience reaction tests, analyst and editor.

RUMOR SPIKED

De Soto Won't Be Dropped. A rumor that the Chrysler Corporation plans to drop production of its De Soto line was refuted this week by Byron J. Nichols, vice-president of automotive sales for the corporation.

Tony Nitti, owner of Shelton Motor Company, Princeton's Chrysler dealer, released a statement in which Mr. Nichols said, "We have no plans to drop De Soto. Public reception of the 1960 line has been exceptional. Our order condition for De Soto is excellent. Future plans for De Soto are continuing in line with our normal planning requirements for all lines of our cars."

WAIT 'TIL NEXT YEAR?
Rough Road Ahead for Tigers.
Followers of team that has just finished a disappointing season traditionally echo the cry of the onetime Flatbush Falcons, the war chant that told everyone that the dead would arise and become invincible. It's a long time before Rutgers and Princeton will open the 1960 football season here on September 24, but there's reason to believe that "next year" may not be the bonanza followers of a beaten team hopefully anticipate.

Several factors seem to point to the trend. In the first place, Princeton loses a dozen players from its 1959 squad, a majority of whom will be particularly hard to replace. In a number of cases, the ability—real or potential—of those who will pick up their diplomas in June appears to be greater than those behind them on the depth chart this season.

Secondly, the upcoming match is somewhat thinner than it has been at late. The Class of 1962, for example, juniors next fall, was the weakest freshman team Princeton has had in four years and contributed little to the personnel picture this season. In actual fact, there were only four sophomores listed among the first 33 players.

The Class of 1963, credited with being a considerable better out than its immediate predecessor, still will have a great deal to learn before its members can add strength to the varsity next season. If some of next fall's sophomores earn berths on the second team, they will have accomplished as much as can be expected of them.

Intangibles a Puzzle. Finally, there is the old—if it possible—to examine the intangibles taking the downward trend taken by Princeton football in 1959. There were three occasions during the nine-game schedule on which performances by the Tigers were particularly puzzling.

In defeating Columbia, Cornell, Colgate and Brown, Princeton players much the type of football expected of it. Two of the five defeats, the opening loss to Rutgers by two points and last Saturday's 12-7 setback at Dartmouth, also were no great surprise.

In losing to Penn (19-0) and Harvard (14-0), however, the Tigers were totally devoid of offensive punch, never coming close to averting a whitewash and producing thoroughly unimpressive figures on total offense. Without leaning too heavily on comparative scores, it can be said that neither Penn nor Harvard ranked as defensive powers this season. Why, then, this total collapse on attack of a veteran Princeton eleven equipped with virtually all key personnel that had won 11 of 14 Ivy games in the two previous seasons?

The last question that will puzzle Princetonians well into the winter months is what happened to the Tiger defense against Yale. Granting the Blue all the fervor stemming from a revenge motive, the fact remains that the 38 points it scored that day was out of all comparison to its success against any of its eight other opponents. In actual fact, the 38 points Princeton yielded is three times greater than the 12 average output of 13 in their other games this fall.

These are the intangibles to which an answer is extremely difficult, yet which must be solved if Princeton is to regain a first division Ivy berth next fall. With Harvard, Yale and Penn all figuring to retain their improved status of this fall, and Dartmouth invariably a title-contender, it will take some doing to shove the Tigers back into the spotlight.

Melodrama Lost. Inability to protect a one-point lead for six minutes cost Princeton a 7-6 upset of Dartmouth Saturday as 30,000 watched the final game of the season in Palmer Stadium. After the first scoreless half-time deadlock in the rivalry for more than 20 years, the teams matched touchdowns but Princeton booted a placement for the conversion whereas Dartmouth failed.

The Indians' score came on a 34-yard drive to open the third quarter, a march set in motion by recovery of one of six fumbles with which Princeton was charged. Princeton led one TD called back midway through the final period, when a fine 89-yard dash by Dan Sachs was nullified by a back-in-motion penalty.

On the next play, the picturesque jump pass worked from Hugh Scott to Lynn Orenreider, covering 60 yards to the Indians' seven. Scott, sidelined most of the game because of a bruised hip, got the TD in three plays, the score coming on the punning pass to Bill Marr in the end zone.

Brewster Lord kicked the point but even though the Tigers recovered a fumble on the first down after the kickoff, they could not hold on. A fourth-down punt

The Old College Try

Because the time of an estimation was changed, thus preventing him from riding on the bus with his teammates to the Heptagonal Cross Country Championship at New York City's Van Cortlandt Park, Princeton junior Dave Fitzgerald encountered some difficulty in getting to the scene of the event. In order, he:

—Checked train and bus schedules, only to learn neither would get him to the starting line on time.

—Broke a window in the University field house so he could get a uniform out of the lockup building.

—Took a taxi cab from Princeton to Van Cortlandt Park (total fare, $29.55).

Changed into his uniform while riding in the taxi.

Got to the starting line in plenty of time to enter the race (in which he finished 43rd).

Asked to Coach Pete Morgan that, beyond all question, here was an athlete with real "desire."

went out on the Dartmouth 30, and the Indians promptly rolled 80 yards against the clock, scoring on a seven-yard pass play with 37 seconds left.

That the drive was kept in motion by a pass interference penalty to which many Princetonians feel was unjustified is somewhat incidental. While it is true that if the call had not been made, Dartmouth could not have won, the Tigers were in a position to have nailed down the triumph much earlier.

They missed a first down—and virtually certain touchdowns—on the Dartmouth three-yard line by inches just before the second period ended. They recovered the Indians' fumble when they led, 7-6, with six minutes to go, and could have run out the clock right there with two consecutive first downs. Having missed both these opportunities, a questionable call by field judge Cliff Montgomery helped the Indians hang the first losing season of Princeton in 14 years.

BASKETBALL TO START

Against Villanova Wednesday. A 25-game basketball schedule will open for Princeton Wednesday night at 8 in Dillon Gymnasium with a strong Villanova quintet furnishing the opposition. Lafayette, likewise generally among the better eastern teams, will be here the following Saturday night.

Four of the five players who nearly won the Ivy championship for the Tigers last winter were graduated, and Cappy Cappon is—Continued on Page 20

bury rebuilding. A lack of height will bother the team this year, no matter how quickly it gains experience.

The Belz brothers, Carl and Herman, have graduated, as have Joe Burns and Art Klein. Jim Brangan, a fine outside shot and uplight ball handler, remains from last year's starters and is now the captain.

Tentatively assigned starting berths are three juniors who were used in a reserve capacity last year, and a sophomore. Tallest of the trio of reserves figured for regular activity is Bernie Brennan, at 6'7 the biggest member of the squad.

Dan Swan, 6-3, will lend some height, as will Mike Burton, with an identical measurement. Sophomore Pete Campbell, 6-1, is the fifth probable starter. His 226 pounds in 11 games broke all existing Princeton records at Princeton last winter.

Drew Hyland, who with Brangan and Burton is the only other letterman on the squad, is a good back court operative, and may now be starting berth at someone's expense. Lynn Oxneder, late in reporting because of football, will see action when ready, and hopes are that sophomore Al Kammerer will recover from a knee operation in time to be of help this year. He's 6-4 and averaged just under 20 points as a freshman.

Tonque, Navy, and Rutgers are other pre-Christmas opponents. With Tennessee and Vanderbilt on the schedule as road games will begin New Year's. Ivy action will start January 2 against Pennsylvania in the Palestra, with Yale and Brown to be played away before the first league game here on January 13 against Penn.

The complete schedule:
December 2, Villanova; 5, Lafayette; 8, Temple at Philadelphia; 12, Navy at Annapolis; 17, Rutgers; 28, Tennessee at Knoxville; 29, Vanderbilt at Nashville; January 2, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 8, Yale at New Haven; 9, Brown at Providence; 13, Pennsylvania; 18, Brown; 20, Rutgers at New Brunswick.

February 1, Colgate; 4, Yale; 12, Cornell at Ithaca; 13, Columbia at New York; 19, Dartmouth; 20, Harvard; 26, Harvard at Cambridge; 27, Dartmouth at Hanover; March 4, Columbia; 5, Cornell.

HUN LOSES FINAL

Ends season with 2-5 record. The Hun football team, which had lost just three in a row, figured to be routine opposition last week for highly-favored Delbarton. In losing to Delbarton in a close 7-0 decision, Hun played by far its best game of the year, against line coach Squier Ball said. Ball is taking over for head coach Harley Waterman, declined by illness.

"Hun outplayed Delbarton in every respect," Ball continued, "but in keeping possession of the ball. We lost the ball twice on pass interceptions and three or four times on fumbles." It was a fumble on Delbarton's 30 in the third period which set the stage for the home team's winning tally. The Green Wave went the remaining distance in ten plays to pick up its fifth win of the season.

Hun nearly scored early in the game. In the second minute of play, Hun took the ball away from Delbarton and marched 45 yards to the Green Wave's one and a half. On fourth down, quarterback John Ketter missed a handoff to Paul Kadie and Hun's best scoring opportunity went for naught.

To help it better this year's disappointing season, Hun will have 12 returning lettermen. Nine of these are linemen and three backfield men to give Hun good balance in experience. Most sorely needed is a power-running fullback and a good quarterback.

"If we don't get a really fine quarterback, our prospects for improving next year are slim," Ball reported. Hun will play eight teams next year, dropping Solebury and adding Pincery from Elizabeth and Perkiomen from Pennsylvania.

PCD TEAMS WIN THREE

In Football and Soccer. Games added to the end of the fall schedule in football and soccer were won last week by Princeton Country Day School.

The Blue and White rallied to defeat Solebury on the gridiron, 20 to 13. Dick Reynolds' first-half touchdown kept PCD within hailing distance despite two TD's for the Pennsylvania eleven. After the intermission, John Brinkerhoff scored two touchdowns and Pepper Pettit converted one each to make it a 20-13 final.

Two goals by Joe Riker and a penalty kick by Bill Smoyer provided the margin of victory over Milltown in soccer. The visitors had a 2-1 lead at the half but Riker's second tally tied it up and Smoyer's best from the corner sailed through the posts to make the difference.

BOWLING NOTES

Tiger Opens Lead. Tiger Garage 440, ahead by two games last week, posted six victories this week to increase its margin to four victories in the Industrial League at Princeton Recreation Center. Trailing are Dayton Five (42) and Pars Lay Supper (38).

In the "A" loop, Shelton Motors (50) leads Deckers Dairy (44) and Fast Hardware and Hoot's Shoes (38 each). Belle Mead (41), Hawk and Ladder H (42) and Dutch Neck (41) are the top contenders in the Tri-County Farmers' League.

SECRETARIES

Good typing skill, efficient on sloppy resumes, typal, stenographic, ability to grasp instructions, a minimum of flatter and confusion; a memory for what happened yesterday or last week; and a vocabulary equal to that expected of a high school graduate at least.

If you don't think we expect too much, we would like to discuss our secretarial positions with you.

The work has many satisfactions. Our benefits are attractive; our hours are 9:30 to 5:00, and we have a wonderful staff whom you would enjoy knowing. For appointment call:

REAL ESTATE OFFERINGS

SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED

PRINCETON BOROUGH

An attractive Cape Cod in a quiet, lightly-trafficked area yet convenient to downtown Princeton. There are four bedrooms, (two on first floor and two on second) and a spacious family room, large kitchen and full dry basement.

$25,900

PRINCETON BOROUGH

An attractive three bedroom rancher, in better than new condition, if this be possible. The living room is large (15 x 23), has a fireplace and conveniently arranged dining space; the kitchen is up to date and very functional. Structurally this house is excellent; it has good lines, a full dry basement, and is most conveniently situated for schools and shopping. We are interested in your offer. Price now is

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP

A country cottage where the children may have a pony, dogs or any other pet. It is where the adults may have privacy and convenient country living. This five room cottage has three bedrooms and one bath. There is a surplus of storage in the large attic and full dry basement. A room for hobbies and outdoor pursuits with large garage and outbuildings.

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

We feel this split-level is different in many respects; it offers a good convenient location, perfect maintenance and most of the aspects of a finished product. It's dishwasher, awnings, etc. There are four bedrooms, 2½ baths, paneled den, screened porch and a nicely planted garden.

PRINCETON BOROUGH

We can offer variability, selection and semi-custom construction in this new development; there are four styles to choose from with varying room arrangements and three to four bedrooms. Call us for details on plans, specifications and financing. Prices start at
